3. Attendance is taken every hour after the commencement of the class. Student found to be absent without prior permission will be strictly punished as per the Rules of the University .
4. A Student is required to obtain atleast 80% of the total classes conducted in a semester in all the subjects prescribed for that semester, separately, in theory, practical and clinical to become eligible to appear for the University Examinations in the first attempt.

C. EXAMINATIONS

A Student shall not be permitted to appear for the University Examination unless the Vice Chancellor and Faculty-Incharge certify that his/her attendance and progress has been satisfactory during the year with atleast 80% which is mandatory.

INTERNAL ASSESSMENT

It shall be based on evaluation of periodic tests assignments, log book maintenance; record book and clinical presentations whichever applicable for that semester. Regular periodic examinations should be conducted throughout the course. There should be a minimum of three (3) session examinations during each semester. The average of the three examination marks should be reduced to 30 for theory, 10 for log book, 5 for attendance and 5 for assignments/seminars collectively calculated for 50 as internal and sent to the University before the University examination as per notification. Proper record which forms the basis of the Internal Assessment will be maintained for all students and should be available for scrutiny.

Continuous Internal Assessment:

A candidate shall secure a minimum of 35% marks in the Internal Assessment (separately for Theory and Practical wherever applicable) to become eligible to appear for the University written examination. If the student fails to secure the minimum required marks in the I.A. he will be detained from appearing for the University examination in the subject concerned.

1. However, such candidate shall be permitted to go to the next semester with the condition that he should improve and obtain a minimum of 35% of marks in I.A. in the subject(s) in which he was detained and qualify himself to appear for the subsequent University Examination as arrear subject(s) along with the subjects of the current semester.
2. If the candidate did not improve the I.A. and qualify himself for writing the examination in the said subject(s) as an arrear paper within the said period will not be permitted to write the entire examination of the current semester till he secures the minimum of 35 % of marks in the subject in which he was detained and not allowed to go to the next semester. On fulfillment of the required I.A. he will appear for the University Examination and will join the subsequent semester during the next academic year when it is offered by the University.
3. Similarly the candidate who secured minimum 35% of marks and appeared for the University examination and could not pass the examination for want of securing 50 % marks in aggregate (both written examination and I.A. put together) shall also be permitted one semester time to improve the I.A. to make up the required 50% aggregate marks to pass the subject/examination and reappear for the University examination. However, the students detained under break of study are not eligible to avail this provision during the period of break.

4. The faculty member shall ensure and provide opportunity to students to improve the I.A. within the permitted one semester.
